A brief description of the research directions pursued by the supervisor (a few sentences describing the scientific/artistic specialization; main research problems; scientific interests) and a possible link to the website/research team	My research work centers on social hierarchy, including the effects of having power over others and being subjected to power of others, the intersection of power and gender, and forms of social identification. I am interested in how the strength and forms of social identification are associated with both inter- and intragroup manifestations across a broad range of group contexts including national groups, teams, political parties and business organizations. I she investigate how various forms of social identification are related to initial readiness to support public policies, including environmental and public health domain. In my research, I rely on a range of methods including experimental, survey, and observational studies.
